

JOIN OUR VIP TEAM!

ThinkFirst Navajo is looking for Voices for Injury Prevention

Do you—or someone you know—have a brain or spinal cord injury that could have been prevented? Your personal story, shared from the heart, could save lives.

Eve's Fund for Native American Health Initiatives, a community-based nonprofit, is seeking Voices for Injury Prevention (VIPs) for its award-winning ThinkFirst Navajo injury prevention program.

What You'll Do

- Share your personal story of injury and recovery
- Teach students (K–12) how to make safe choices and avoid preventable injuries.
- Present at schools, camps, health fairs, and community events across rural Native communities in New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah.

We Are Looking For Individuals Who

- Are willing to speak to young audiences.
- Are passionate about injury prevention and youth education
- Can be available 1-2 days per week, with occasional travel
- Reside on or near a Native American community in AZ, NM, or UT
- Have access to a phone, computer, and transportation

What We Provide

- Comprehensive training and ongoing peer support
- Mileage reimbursement and honoraria for each presentation
- The opportunity to save young lives and prevent catastrophic injuries

HOW TO APPLY

Send a letter of interest (and resume, if available) to:
Helen Pino, Program Liaison
info@evcrowellsfund.org;
(800) 646-2952

